FARM TO FARM

(By BYRON DYER, County Agent)

One method of marketing hogs is to slaughter these and sell cured hams, declares John M. Brannen. Country cured hams usually sell for a premium if moved while in good condition.

J. A. Bunce finds a place for watermelons in the farming program provided good stuff is produced. He annually loads out some of the best melons shipped from Georgia. This year is no exception for him.

Temporary pastures of soybeans and other good grazing crops help get hogs off to market before the seasonal drop in prices, according to Bobbie Belcher. He should know; he has some pigs that weighed 100 pounds at three months old.

Brooks Lanier says that it is easy to get tenants to plant and care for velvet beans. Mr. Lanier, like many other farmers, found this to be a major problem. To solve the problem he offered to buy all the beans the tenants could produce at a fair price, either picked or left on the vines.

W. C. Hodges' method of keeping wages hands on the farm until the crop is harvested is to give them a small crop in addition to the regular monthly wages. Mr. Hodges says that this system works for both parties; he does not have to worry about the hands leaving him and then they in turn have an interest in the crop that causes them to be better workers.

FRANCES HUGHES, Reporter.

A Virginia statesman says that the last five years have given the American people a new meaning for the word freedom. Wonder if he means self-determination, C. I. O. pliers and John Lewis telling us what to do?

Don't put up with useless PAIN

Get rid of it
When functional pains of men- struation are severe, take CAL- DOL. If it doesn't benefit you, consult a physician. Don't neglect such pains. They depress the tone of the nerve, cause sleeplessness, loss of appetite, wear out your resistance.
Get a bottle of Caldol and see whether it will help you, as thousands of women have said it helped them.
Bottles contain certain pain. Caldol said to building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from the food they eat.

ANDERSON GROUP

HOLD BIG REUNION

Revive Old Custom At Fish Fry Near Sinkhole Bridge On Saturday, June 26.

An interesting and inspiring occasion was the reunion of members of the Anderson family, including the immediate families of the late John Anderson and Sarah Ann (Lester) Anderson, which was held at Little Creek bridge, about one mile from the Sinkhole bridge on Letts creek, Saturday, June 26. The occasion was a revival of the old custom of this family to hold annual gatherings for social intercourse.

Members of the John Anderson family present were Mrs. J. L. Anderson, Charles M. Anderson, J. A. Denmark, Mrs. Georgia Anderson, R. C. Anderson, Mrs. Maggie Rushing, Henry Anderson, Mrs. Imogene and Audrie Holland, with younger members of their families, numbering about fifty children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. All the families of the children were present except that of J. D. (Bunk) Anderson, deceased, whose family live in Philadelphia.

Bulloch Clubsters

In Camp at Tifton

Bulloch county 4-H club boys were represented at the annual camp held last week at Abraham Baldwin College, Tifton, by W. C. Hodges Jr., James Lane, P. W. Clifton Jr. and Bill DeLoach. The clubsters from South Georgia met at the college Wednesday, June 30, with the club glee from Southwest Georgia. The remainder of the week was for boys only.

Perhaps the high spot of the camp for the boys was the demonstration in mixing and using the spray that controls blue mold on tobacco. However, the clubsters had a chance to study experimental work being done at the Coastal Plain Experiment Station, which surrounds the college campus.

Other camps for the boys will be attended through the summer. About 25 boys will go to Camp Williams for the regular camp and two will go to the leadership conference camp in August.

Alderman Family

Hold Annual Meet

Many residents of Bulloch and other counties in Georgia and Florida have received notices of the annual meeting of the Alderman Historical Association to be held Friday, July 16th, at 10:30 a. m., at Moore's Creek National Military Park, near Currie, Pender county, North Carolina. This park is approximately thirty miles northwest from Wilmington and is the spot on which the Battle of Moore's Creek Bridge, one of the decisive battles of the Revolutionary War, was fought on February 27, 1776.

This park is also near the place where the southern branch of the Alderman family first settled in their migration south from the New England States. Most of the Aldermans, Newtons, Brancs, and others in this section can trace their ancestry back to these early pioneers.

Asa B. Alderman, superintendent of public instruction of Greene county, N. C., is serving his third year as president of the association and he urges attendance of any who are related to these early settlers by blood or marriage. An interesting program has been arranged and a basket picnic will be served to the many hundred who are expected to attend.

William A. Parker, 218 N. East street, Raleigh, N. C., is acting historian of the clan and he is assembling statistics for a history of the Aldermans of the South which is soon to be published in book form. He is anxious to hear from any who rightfully belong in this history and who have not yet furnished their family data.

Our fellow townsmen Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee Moore, who have attended several of these reunions in North Carolina, are also assisting in assembling material for this history.

THEODORE KNIPL IS BURIED AT POOLER

Funeral services for Theodore ("Ted") Knip, who died last Saturday morning after an illness of two weeks, were held at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the chapel of Barnes Funeral Home, followed by interment in the Pooler cemetery. Services here were conducted by the Rev. G. N. Rainey, pastor of the Methodist church, and services at the grave in Pooler were handled by the Rev. John S. Wilder, D. D., pastor of Calvary Baptist church, Savannah.

Mr. Knip, who was 24 years of age, moved to Statesboro last year after having resided in Pooler and Savannah. He was an abolitionist and was connected with the building of the Bulloch County Hospital. He was a strong, robust youth and was winner in a 200-mile cross country bicycle race which was recently run, beginning and ending in Savannah and passing through Statesboro.

Besides his widow he is survived by an eight-weeks-old infant; his stepmother, Mrs. L. H. Parker, of Los Angeles, Calif.; three sisters, Miss Katherine Knip, of Baltimore, Md.; Miss Margaret Knip, of Los Angeles, Calif.; and Mrs. Edward Leonard, of Chicago.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thus express our deepest appreciation to those friends who were so kind to us and who during the illness which resulted in the death of our loved one. Almost strangers among you, you took us in and administered in our distress. We shall never forget your kindness and sympathy.

MRS. TED KNIPL, MOTHER AND SISTERS.

In the old horse and buggy days an ambitious youth had to start at the bottom and work and save for years to achieve success. Now all he has to do is go to a corner store and buy a book for $2 that will tell him how to do it in ninety days.

A great many of our folks had picnics and outings at different places on Monday. Some went to Tybee, some to a point below Ways Station, and others to the river and creeks, besides which there were several family dinners at home in our midst.

About fifty of the members of Harville Sunday school enjoyed a basket dinner Saturday at Mr. Re's bridge. The day was lovely, the dinner just the best ever, and the water grand for those who wanted to go in bathing; so everyone spent a great day.

Miss Madgie Lee Nesmith entertained last Monday afternoon with a bridge party complementing Mrs. W. H. Canady, who moved away Wednesday to Egypt, where Mr. Canady will be superintendent of the Pyramid
